

Where do you see the design and construction community playing the most essential (if not critical) role in the nation's preparedness against another terrorist attack?

➤ Did your company have an emergency plan or policy before 9/11/01? Yes – 91% No – 9%

➤ Has your company addressed its emergency plan or policy since 9/11/01? Yes – 73% No – 27%

➤ Of those answering yes:

- 12.5% reviewed their emergency plans
- 87.5% modified their emergency plans

➤ How is your company's emergency plan devised?

- Single company-wide plan – 27%
- Combination – 55%
- Neither – 9%
- Other – 9%

➤ Does your company's plan have a “stepped” approach that parallels the Office of Homeland Security's color code alert system?

- No – 73%
- Somewhat – 9%
- Not Sure – 18%

➤ Does your company's emergency plan include third parties?

- Yes – 45%
- No – 45%
- Not Sure – 9%

➤ Of those who answered YES, the top choices were:

- Emergency/Rescue Units
- Other Design Partners
- Subcontractors
- Suppliers/Manufacturers
- Public Sector Clients
- Other Construction Partners

➤ Are any of your staff on-call or part of a response team if another terrorist attack occurs against critical infrastructure?

- Yes – 27%
- No – 55%
- Not Sure – 18%

➤ What do you believe are the most essential elements in addressing longer-term protection of the nation's critical infrastructure sites?

- Tightening security measures at sites
- Retrofitting sites to strengthen against attacks
- Changing or restricting access to sites
- Adopting new codes and standards to address the terrorist threat
- Focusing on the creation of critical infrastructure list

➤ Has the nation (especially your clients, employees, and/or other stakeholders) returned to a “business as usual” approach with respect to the terrorist threat against critical infrastructure assets?

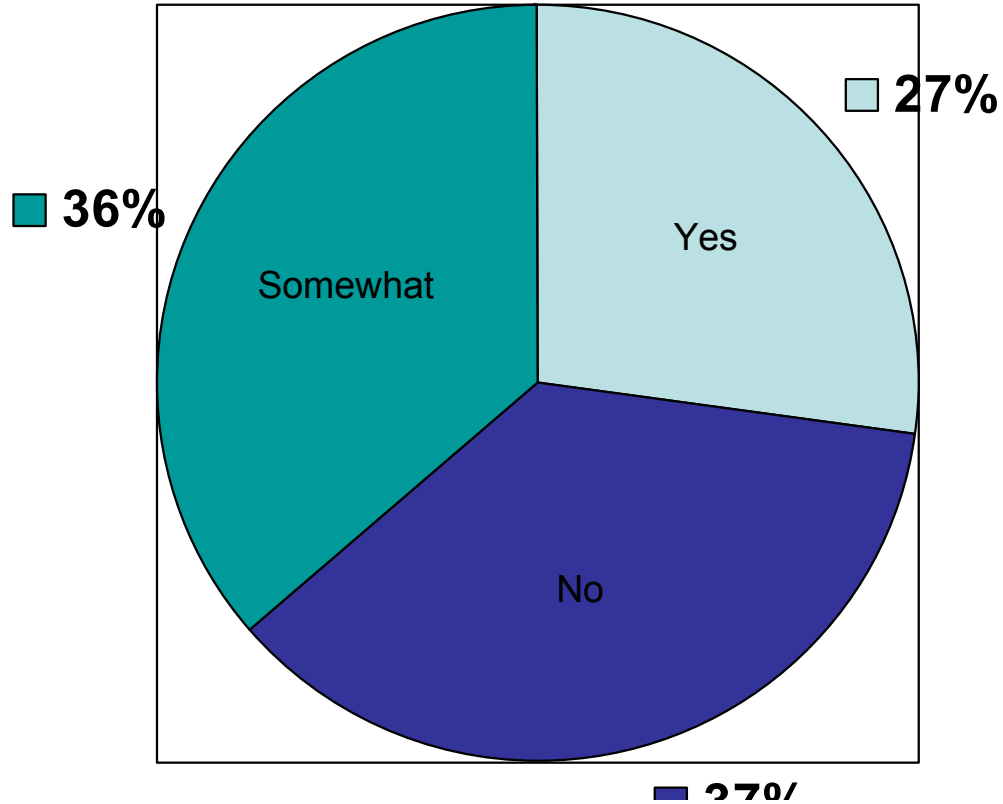

■ Yes - 36% ■ No - 9% ■ Somewhat - 55%

➤ Have you?

■ Yes - 27% ■ No - 36% ■ Somewhat - 36%

➤ Most experts say it is a matter of time before another terrorist attack will occur against critical infrastructure. How much time do you believe the community has to prepare for such an attack?

➤ In your estimation, what would be the most likely critical infrastructure target?

