

Congressman Patrick Erin Murphy serves as CEO and Founder of Toga.AI, overseeing the company's day to day operations. Additionally, he currently serves as Executive Vice President of the largest General Contractor in Florida.

Having been raised in the business, Patrick first started in the construction industry as a day laborer, then project engineer, estimating assistant and accounting manager. After graduating from the University of Miami, Patrick worked at Deloitte where he earned his CPA license that he maintains today.

Patrick served in U.S. Congress, representing Palm Beach and Treasure Coast in the House of Representatives for four years (2013-2017) and was the nominee for the U.S. Senate in 2016. After leaving office in 2017, he was named chair of the Future Forum Foundation, a nonprofit organization that researches key issues impacting millennials, such as automation, artificial intelligence and the sharing economy.
